A SUCCESS STORY FROM LIVELIHOOD INITIATIVE

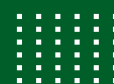

In Gosaigaon, a core village of the Gram Parivartan project, Arun Bhuiyan and his family of four encountered adversity when Arun, the primary breadwinner, suffered a bike accident that left his hand paralyzed. With their livelihood at stake, Arun's wife, Ringku, took on the responsibility of providing for the family. Trained as a tailor, she possessed the skill to stitch various types of clothes but faced limitations due to working with an old, frequently malfunctioning sewing machine. The family's modest income prevented them from purchasing a new machine, hindering Ringku from realizing her full potential.

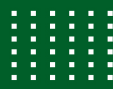

Ringku sought assistance from the Gram Parivartan team, highlighting their pressing need for a new sewing machine. Recognizing Ringku's skills and the family's reliance on her income, the team selected her as a beneficiary for the much-needed equipment. With the arrival of the new sewing machine, she has started to get orders for stitching different types of dresses.

Ringku's increased productivity translated into a significant boost in earnings, with her monthly additional income of Rs 7000 rupees.
