VERMI COMPOST

- ➔ Promoted 20 vermicompost units, benefiting 20 small and marginal farmers spread across 3 villages, to improve the organic content of soil, reduce input costs, and eventually increase the yield
- ➔ Each vermicompost unit has the annual potential to generate 1 ton of compost and will cater to 1 acre of land, which will save around Rs. 22,000 on the input costs for chemical fertilizers

HANDI KHATA

- ➔ Promotion of Handi Khata (Organic pesticide) with 43 farmers in 6 villages
- ➔ This organic formulation helps to prevent a few types of plant diseases and pests, reduce application of chemicals and reduce input costs

Innovation and Success. A case study

Sabitri Patra was trained by DBF to cultivate mushroom. Sabitri learnt the trade and established her mushroom cultivation unit. She could consistently increase the production and establish rapport with multiple buyers to get the produce sold for a fair price. As days moved, she was engaged by DBF to train more beneficiaries as mushroom was well in demand throughout the year. She had trained nearly 300 women around 260 are producing mushroom, leading to a wide economic impact in the local community. Women earn around Rs.4000 per month. The efforts of Sabitri won her the title "Mushroom Lady of Lanjiberna".

GRAM PARIVARTAN

(An action towards bringing change)

Introduction
